Opening of Circuit Gilles-Villeneuve's cycling path

Montréal, March 23, 2016 – Sign of the arrival of Spring, cyclists, as well as running and in-line skating enthusiasts will be able to do their sporting activity on the Circuit Gilles-Villeneuve just in time for the long Easter weekend, two weeks earlier than 2015. The bike link between the South Shore (Saint-Lambert) and Parc Jean-Drapeau will also be open.

Circuit Gilles-Villeneuve, which is 4.361 kilometres long, provides some outstanding views of downtown Montréal and the Saint Lawrence River. Known as the ideal spot to train, the facility has an estimated 180,000 users per year. Visitors will now be able to enjoy it every day until November 15, 2016, from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.
